LIFE IMPRISONMENT PUNISHMENT JURY GIVES TIP LONG

Verdict Given After Only Eighteen Minutes Deliberation—Charged With Murder of Jess Brady January 15

TRIAL OF BURTON JONES FOR MURDER NOW ON

Imprisonment for life is the punishment to be meted out to Tip Long, according to the verdict of thejury which was reached after only eighteen minutes deliberation in circuit court this morning. He was charged with the murder of Jess Brady near the Crystal mines on the afternoon of January 15.

The commonwealth, represented by T G. Anderson. county attorney, introduced testimony to prove that Long had previously made threats against the life of the deceased, that he killed him with little or no provocation. The defendant sought to prove that he fired the shot in self-defense According to testimony given mainly by members of his family, Brady came up to his porch, struck Long with a rock and was preparing to throw another one when Long drew his revolver and fired. Defendant also sought to prove that Brady had made threats against his life several days before the fatal shooting. To offset this, the commonwealth introduced testimony to the effect that Brady was in reality acting in the role of peace-maker and was doing all he could to keep down the trouble.

"Gentlemen of the jury, if things have come to such a pass in this county that a man can't be a peace-maker without being driven to his place of execution and there shot down in cold blood, then acquit this man. But if you mean to encourage law and order, then do your duty!" Such was the concluding argument of the commonwealth's attorney.

All through the trial and even after the verdict was announced, Tip Long sat apparently unmoved Members of his family present betrayed some agitation.

The case of Burton Jones, charged with the murder of Jess Bull on December 12, was called for trial after the conclusion of the Long case. It was expected to last throughout the afternoon and perhaps into Thursday morning.

Priest Will Halt Gunmen's Feud; Clergyman Acts As Police Fail

Thirty Already Dead From Long Standing Gang War In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS. March 14.—A mild-mannered priest here has undertaken as one of his parish duties the breaking up of a desperate revolver war between two rival groups of gansters which has already cost more than 30 lives.

The priest is the Rev. Timothy Dempsey, pastor of St. Patrick's Church. The two gangs are the "Rats" and the Jelly Rolls". Father Dempsey once led them by peaceable persuasion to sign an armistice and now, he says he'll do it again.

The original dispute started over a political argument and was given impetus by an altercation between a "Rat" and a "Jelly-Roll" as to how many aces should be found in a deck of cards.

Later bank robberies, train hold-ups and safe blowings, in which profits were unfairly divided, heightened the animosity.

A climax was reached two years ago when William T. Egan, "Rat", leader was shot and killed.

Then the pendulum swung back and forth until the gang annals of St. Louis were nothing more than a double-entry ledger kept by death with the blood of the "Jelly-Rolls" on one side and the "Rats" on the other.

Priest Calls Truce

Then Father Dempsey arranged for a meeting between the gangsters.

He was highly respected by all classes. Even the gunmen admired him.

The priest pledged the gunmen to lay aside their "gats" and forget the feud. They agreed. They kept their promises until Abe Goldfeder, "Jelly-Roll" adherent, was shot and wounded.

Then came reprisals and the feud was on again, even more bitter than before. The latest outrage was the murder in broad daylight of Jacob Macker, an attorney who had defended members of the "Jelly-Rolls."

Apparently in retaliation "Little Red" Powers ,known as a friend of the "Rats" was shot dead as he lay sleeping.

No Prosecutions

In none of these killings has there been any prosecution. The police are unable to get witnesses and the gang code of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth leads gangsters to avoid the law and settle their own disputes with their revolvers outside of court.

So Father Dempsey is starting all over again. He is making the rounds of the rendezvous of the adherents of both camps and attempting to get them again to lay down their weapons.

"I know all of the gang members, and I need only ask them to see me and they will come," says Father Dempsey. "They have faith in me and wild do as I say."

CHILDRENS HOME NEEDS HOSPITAL

Village of Sixteen Buildings Visualized As Goal Of Campaign For $600,000

By Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, March 14—While a hospital is declared the greatest need of the Kentucky Children's Home Society at Lyndon, a cottage village comprising seventeen buildings is visualized at the goal of the campaign for $600.000. These buildings which are t obe constructed at once on the 80 acre tract adjoining K. M. I. would relieve to a great extent the actual suffering among the homeless children of the state. according to George L. Sehon, superintendent of the society.

At present there are two permanent buildings, the four unit dormitory building designed to house 100 children and the administration building in which are the school rooms. There are 185 children at present in the home whereas from all sections of the state come reports of hunger, and lack of shelter and clothing by children who have no one to care for or support them.

These reports are from the county judges asking that the doors of the home be thrown open to more children. Only on the commitment orders of the county judges are children admitted.

The pressing need for a hospital is said to be due to the danger of a contagious disease gaining a foothold through the present method of placing newly arrived children in a ward in the same building with the others and to the need for complete isolation for those who might get ill. The hospital will be the first building to be erected. work to be started as soon as weather conditions permit.

Prior to the establishment of the Kentucky Children's Home Society. twenty six years ago. the "poorhouse" child was a familiar sight in every Kentucky county. The society was organized to find homes for these "poorhouse" children and today there are more than 5,000 boys and girls, many of them grown, who are under the supervision of the society, the majority of them being prosperous citizens or happy wives.

The organization of the various counties is being speeded up and it is predicted that the entire fund, which is needed to complete the cottage village will be raised by spring

INJUNCTION MAY BE OBTAINED IN STREET PAVING

Business Men Insist East End Repairs Should Be Instituted Before West End Paving Is Considered

FEAR CITY MAY LOSE STATE AID ON REPAIR

Possibilities of obtaining an injunction which will restrain the city from paving West Cumberland avenue before doing the badly needed work on the east end of the street is being discussed by a number of business men. Legal advice on the subject has not yet been sought and they are by no means certain that sufficient ground for a restraining order exist but they are almost desperate over the city's alleged delinquency and delay in the East Cumberland project.

Inasmuch as the condition of East Cumberland avenue from Tenth street to Fitzpatrick avenue is much more in need of repairs than the other end and as immediate work on this section will insure the aid of the state highway commission, the leading business men of the city are agitating the movement. This part of the street, they say, is that over which tourists pass and a part of the Dixie Highway and should be repaired before any other work is taken up.

Citizens are actuated entirely by unselfish motives. They say they are working for the best interests of the city and for this section of the state They are willing, even eager, to pay for their part of the improvement, whatever it may be. So far as is now known, no one has expressed themselves as against the proposition of an early improvement of East Cumberland. They seem to be unanimously in favor of it and fear that it will be delayed or postponed indefinitely if the other work contemplated by the city is allowed to intervene.

The injunction will, of course, be sought as a last resource. It is hoped that the specifications and other preliminary work will be completed by the city soon enough to insure the aid of the state highway commission in financing the work. Citizens say that the city should have acted in the matter long ago. that the delay of the city may cost the forfeiture of aid from the state.

IRISH MINISTERS ARE PRISONERS OF OWN GOVERNMENT

President and Cabinet are Closely Guarded to Prevent Assassinations—Receive Death Threats

'ORIELS' ORGANIZED TO COMBAT IRREGULARS' WOMAN SPIES

How will St. Patrick's Day, 1923, find Ireland? Milton Bronner tells us in a series of articles.

By MILTON BRONNER

DUBLIN, March 14.—A government carrying on all the functions of a government, yet a government which has to keep itself behind barred doors in its own capital—this is one of the striking anomalies of the Irish Free State.

The circumstance is not due to lax government or to personal cowardice of government officials. It is due to the kind of war that is being carried on against it.

The Dublin police force is a splendid body of men which keeps order on the streets and regulates traffic with ease. The Irish Free State army under General Mulcahy is a well-disciplined, well-equipped organization of 30,000 men, the proof of whose energy is that about 8,000 Irregulars are in prison.

Guerrila Warfare

But the Irregulars are elusive. They bob up near Cork one day, near Dublin or Wexford the next. They come out of the fog and vanish into the moist. The hillsides know them and the waste places. And you can't tell who is an Irregular.

At the request of the army, therefore, the president and his cabinet are living under guard in overnment buildins. This is to prevent any further occurrences like the killing of Michael Collins.

Not only have the Irregulars at times shot at the buildings but there are constant rumors of attempts to drive mines under the streets and the buildings.

The private residences of some of the cabinet members have been burned. Others have received threats.

So far these have had little affect upon either the government or the members of the Dail Eireann.

The only member who has resigned has been Dr. George Sigerson, who is 85.

Dr. Sigerson ,a famous physician, was in the Senate. He received a letter threatening to burn his property. He was quoted as saying he did not mind threats of assassination, but threats to burn his home were a different matter, because of the patients there.

"Oriels" Organized

In addition to the open warfare in Dublin and throughout Southern Ireland, there is a secret undercover warfare.

The irregulars get their information through devoted women who give all their time to what they call the republican cause.

To combat these, the Free State has set up a Criminal Investigation Department, popularly known as "Oriel House," because of the building in which it has offices. The Oriel men have already established a reputation in Ireland similar to that of Scotland Yard in London. Owing to their activities tons of ammunition and masses of Irregular literature have been confiscated.

A THOUGHT

And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon the house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.—Mat. 7:25.

The man who is just and resolute will not be moved from his settled purpose, either by the misdirected rage of his fellow citizens, or by the threats of an imperious tyrant.—Horace.

DEMOCRACY AND EDUCATION

Dr. Charles Eliot, who if he lives to one week from today, will celebrate the 89th anniversary of his birth, and he is not yet an old man. His days beinning with his early boyhood have been days and nights of research, of study, and he stands today in the front rank of the world's acknowledged scholars.

Dr. Eliot has recently written an article printed in the March number of Current History in which he answers the question regarding the essential principles of democracy, from which the following brief paragraph is copied. Finally an essential principle of democracy is the right of every child to receive as much education as he can take in and hold during childhood and youth and then of every adult to continuous education and from his own observation and life add until his faculties become impaired."

That we believe is sound doctrine, the state owes to the child every facility, for the acquirement of what it should possess, when that is done the state, has completed its obligation. On the part of the state, the education of the boys and girls is an asset, on the part of the one who partakes of it it becomes a liability.

The thought in the article mentioned is one to be pondered there is fear that it is not. The money raised thru taxation and expended in the carrying on of the public schools is not a charity, it is an investment, the purpose is to foster and strengthen citizenship. It is the duty of every voter to study the questions that arise from time to time and to do his or her part in the settlement of the problems as they come, and they are sure to come.

Increase of knowledge means an increase of responsibility, but shame on the man or the woman who might seek to avoid responsibility by remaining ignorant. The one who assumes that ignorance is bliss is to be pitied, he or she, assumes that wisdom is folly. The strength of a republic is in the intelligence and the virtue of its people.—Journal and Tribune.

THE OPEN FORUM

THE LINCOLN PARK

Editor Daily News:

I have noted several articles written about the proposed park and thought I would add a few more words in its behalf. This proposed park is located at the union of our three states Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, and no more appropriate place could be selected to give the fifteenth preside of our country more honor. I am sure it would be one of the most honorable ways in which this government could mommemorate and honor the name of Abraham Lincoln.

Lincoln was born in a log cabin and arose to be on of the most honored and respected and distinguished men of the world, loved by both north and south, and honored and respected by the nations abroad. Nothing else could be more honorable and appropriate to this man, than to establish a park at Cumberland Gap in his memory.

Abraham Lincoln was a boy who lived in a log cabin in Hardin county Kentucky, split rails and worked on a farm. He read what books he could procure or borrow from his neighbors and read them from a pine torch stuck in the sides of a chimney till he got a fair education. He then arose from that kind of surroundings to be one of the greatest men of the world and no one has ever been more loved, admired and respected by his countrymen than this man.

Abraham Lincoln was elected president of the United States for two terms but was assassinated soon after second election. He saved the union, freed the slaves and put the government on a sound basis. So far the government of the United States has never honored this great man as I think he should have been and I know that this proposed park should be established by Congress in his honor. Congressman J. M. Robsion has introduced a bill to establish this park.

This park will be situated directly on the trail of Dr. Walker and Daniel Boone, when they came to explore Kentucky. Daniel Boone's son and six others of his party were killed by the Indians, while crossing through Cumberland Gap.

While Lincoln was president, Cumberland Gap was a strategic point between the north and the south, and they both realized the importance of this position and armies were there for months guarding the place with precaution.

I trust our member of Congress, Hon. J. M. Robsion, will use his best efforts and all honorable means to get this bill through, and that it will be named "Lincoln Park."

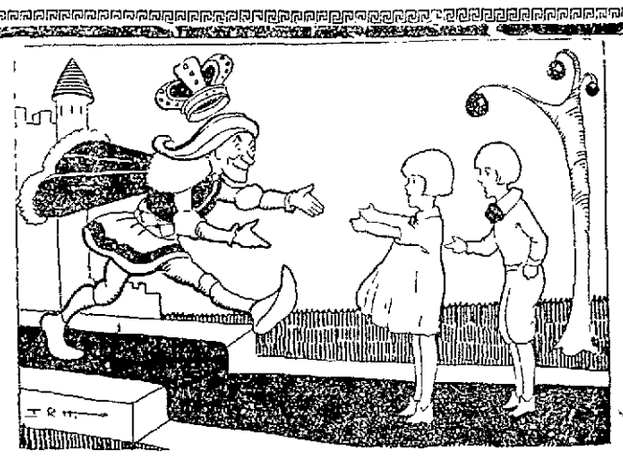
Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton



As Nancy and Nick walked through Apple-Pie Land they met all the Mix-Uppers who had been turned back into Apple-Pie Landers. Everybody was as happy as could be and thanked the Twins for being such a help.

King Even-Steven came out of his palace in his velvet robes and gold crown and said how much obliged he was for turning him back from a begger into a king.

The rabbit called One-Up-and-One-Down was no longer a rabbit but the king's cook and the smell of hot apple pies was now coming out of the king's kitchen.

The automobile was back on its own wheels again and rolling 'round in dizzy circles for very joy. The ostrich was stretching its own wings which he had never hoped to see again. The wind-mill was no longer in a hole but whirling its wheel merrily on top of the round The clock's hands were back in place and it was striking a hundred times to show its delight.

Tommy's manners improved at once and he no longer slammed doors and upset chairs. The Mix-Up school also improved at once and said the alphabet from A to Z instead of from Z to A.

Cows ate grass in the fields while the whales returned to their proper place in the ocean.

The baker-man's fire melted all the ice and his bread started to bake as it should.

The Cut-Out Lady turned into a lovely maiden and the chocolate-cake dog with the pink-icing ears turned into a fine shepherd dog.

The bread-pill general turned back into a real soldier with a real gun and a real sword.

The Five and Ten dollar store that said "Nothing under," turned into a nice Five-and-Ten Cent Store that said Nothing Over," and everything was in fine shape.

"Let's give three cheers for the Twins," cried Tommy, and the last thing the Twins heard as they departed were three loud Hurrahs!

Service—the Heart of Fellowship

"For the Son of man also came not to be ministered unto but to minister." Mark 10:4-5.

Read Mark 10:32-52.

"The ability to put one's life into another life is one of the richest of all the gifts of heaven."

MEDITATION: There is no fellowship if "great ones exercise authority," but if the great ones become bond servants" to the others, all are bound together in a real fellowship. In the Kingdom of Good Will, no one lives for himself alone.

HYMN:

Savior, who thou life didst give,
That our souls might ransomed be,
Rest we not till all the world
Hears that love, and turns to thee.

PRAYER: Lord God Almighty, defend our land, we beseech thee, from the secret power and the open shame of great national sins. From all dishonesty and civic corruption; from all vainglory and selfish luxury; from all cruelty and the spirit of violence; from covetousness, impurity, and intemperance, good Lord, deliver and save us, and our children, and our children's children; through Jesus Christ. McGehee, Ark.

At present you'll notice that we-hee
Have stopped at the town of McGehee.
McGehee, you see-hee,
Is right where we be-hee,
McGehee in Arkansaw.

Our welcome was joyous and free-hee
They're warm-hearted folks in McGehee;
So you will agree-hee
We shouldn't tee-hee-hee
Or polk fun at the town of McGehee,
McGehee in Arkansaw.

Yet somehow it fills us with glee-hee,
A town with a name like McGehee;
If you were to flee-hee
From where you may be-hee,
Avoiding collectors or some court's decree-hee,
I think you'd be safe if you picked out McGehee,
McGehee in Arkansaw.

For when people heard you had gone to McGehee
They'd say "Aw go on, quit your kiddin' with me-hee,
There ain't no such village nor localitee-hee,
There ain't any town by the name of McGehee!"

Well, look in your atlas or geographee-hee
And ther you will see-hee
This place where we be-ee.
This nice little town that is christened McGehee.

AN INTIMATE STORY OF INNERMOST EMOTIONS REVEALED IN PRIVATE LETTERS

Copyright 1923 - NEA Service Inc

LETTER FROM LESLIE MANILTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

LOVER MINE:

I am sitting in my drawing room. It is very late. There is no more passing before my door; nothing assails my ears except the sound of the pounding wheels underneath the car which keeps saying "The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you— the miles are lengthening between you."

The monotony of the refrain is maddening, even if the fact were not breaking my heart—my sad heart, which keeps trying to bridge those weary miles that are stretching out further and further from me to you.

Hearts, you know, are never worldly, never practical. They do not reason, they only feel—and that is why perhaps they are bruised and hurt so often.

Tonight my heart is crying out to that part of my brain we humans call reason, that it has basely persuaded me to give up that which I know now makes existence for life, for the sake of following out some silly convention of society.

I want you so, lover mine, I want you so. Everything in the world sinks into nothingness beside the want of you.

But my reason insists that weddings must be prepared for, just as births and burials must be given thought and preparation. Life is not all feelings and impulse. In fact I am afraid we will find more responsibility and duty in it than romance and dreams. Although I hate it, tonight, I know more than ever before that convention after all is but making into a universal rule the duties imposed on mankind by necessity and convenience. I close my hand over my clamoring heart and listen to the sane counsels of reason.

You know, John dear, that my mother would never have forgiven me had I slipped away and married you without letting anyone know, as you wanted me to do. Mothers want to make the world think, at least, that their daughters are going to something better than they have ever had before, and much of the compensation which will come to my mother for losing her daughter will be the glory of sending me to you in the proper manner.

So there must be wedding bells and cakes, and flowers and bridemaids and clothes, and chests of lines and wedding presents all the round of social affairs that come before. Oh, how I shall hate those social affairs, for you, John, will not be with me!

All the time I am bowing and smiling and accepting felicitations and good wishes, I shall be wishing that I was beside you in the little roadster, hurrying along a deserted country road where the twilight shuts down between the shadoy trees that line its sides and the moon is faintly shiwing as it comes up over the hills in the distance.

You will not forget anything about me, will you John? You will remember just how my mouth looked when you bent over to kiss me? You will remember the touch of my hand—the intonation of my voice—and the unhappiness of my whole being expressed when you were leaving me? I could not bear to have you forget.

John, dear John, the unhappiness of parting is mine, now. Those insistent wheels are bumping along, not upon the iron rails but upon my heart, saying over and over again, "The miles are lengthening between you."

I do hope you are writing me tonight. For even if you do, the earliest I can hear from you will be two days from now, after I have been home at least 12 hours. But whether you are writing or not, lover mine, you cannot take from me this sad happiness—yes, John, there is such a thing as sad happiness, but only lovers know it—of sitting here and writing to you.

I am very impatient to get home. I am very impatient to tell them at home about you.

Dad, dear old dad, will be gruff in his questions, but I know he wil give his consent when I tell him that only you can make me happy. Mother, John, will be rather proud, you are so good looking, dear.

Whatever mothers may say about their grief at losin their daughters, ever mother feels happier when she sees her girl well settled; when she knows that she has begun to fulfill her destiny. No mother likes to feel that her daughter cannot exert that feminine lure which brings to her the love of a good man.

John my mother will love you and my father respect and admire you. Alice, my young sister, will adore you—and I, lover mine? You are always a part of your loving, loving,

LESLIE.

Over 17 Million Jars Used Yearly

SAVED SICK SPELLS

Black-Draught Found Valuable by a Texas Farmer, Who Has Known Its Usefulness Over 30 Years.

Naples, Texas.—"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for years—I can safely say for more than 30 years," declares Mr. H. H. Cromer, a substantial, well-known farmer, residing out from here on Route 3.

"I am 43 years old, and when a small boy I had indigestion and was puny and my folks gave me a liver regulator. Then Black-Draught was advertised and we heard of it.

"I began to take Black-Draught, and have used it, when needed, ever since. I use Black-Draught now in my home, and certainly recommend it for any liver trouble.

"I have given it a thorough trial, and after thirty years can say Black-Draught is my stand-by. It has saved me many sick spells."

Mr. Cromer writes that he is "never out of Black-Draught," and says several of his neighbors prefer it to any other liver medicine. "I always recommend Black-Draught to my friends," he adds.

This valuable, old, powdered liver medicine is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and has none of the bad effects so often observed from the use of calomel, or other powerful mineral drugs.

Be sure to get the genuine, Thedford's.

MARCH—THE SHREW

March is a shrew,
A wilful daughter of Padua.
A veritable Katherine of the seasons
We have not the will of a Petruchio
No inclination, nor desire to tame her.

We are entranced utterly by her unconquerable spirit.
By the boisterous life and lure of her;
By her sprightly temper and her lusty voice on the wind—
Even though it bluster, ever and anon—
Like that of a long-tongued scold.

When she has ceased her rampant chase across the meadows,
What touch then is more soft than her caress?
Whose step more light than hers upon the sleeping earth?
And what more tender maid e'er waited in breathless expectation.
At the tombs door—for spring's resurrection?

March! Mad, wilful, sweet, adoring!
Say thou 'tis the moon hangs high at day's noon;
Or 'tis the sun has reached his zenith on a breast of stars—
And we will turn the tables on Petruchio and say;
"Lovely Maid! Sun or moon, have it what you list!"

Shower For Miss Carrie Lee Templin

A honeymoon trip to Florida and Cuba, with all the adventure and delights attendant, was the pleasure accorded the guests yesterday at the shower given for Miss Carrie Lee Templin by Mrs. J. H. Keeney and Mrs. P. H. Keeney, at the former's home on Arthur Heights. To start the trip, the guests were arranged, at tables, representing six stations on the honeymoon. The stations were Middlesboro, Knoxville, Atlanta, Palm Beach, Tampa and Cuba, the route Miss Templin will take on her honeymoon. An ingenuous game for spelling out the names of the places was played with heart shaped cards and the guests progressed to the various stations according to their skill at the game. When the bride-to-be reached Middlesboro the game ceased and the baggage was brought forth from the "baggage room" for Miss Templin to unpack. This baggage proved to be the shower gifts concealed in old bags and valises and decorated honeymoon fashion, in old shoes and cowbells.

After Miss Templin had unpacked her lovely gifts, refreshments were served, buffet style, in the dining room. The table here was decorated with two silver candlesticks at each end and an engaging centerpiece representing a Florida scene with an interesting fisherman fishing in a lake of glass, banked in moss and smilax. Refreshments were pink ice cream, shaped as tiny boats and trunks, and heart-shaped pink cakes on each of which was a monogram formed of the initial letters, M and T. Pink mints were passed in tiny trunks and bags, and pink and orchid sweet peas decorated the plates.

Miss Templin, in the seat of honor, was very lovely in a dress of ashes of roses silk crepe, elaborately embroidered in Egyptian design. Her hat was of corresponding color, covered with cherries.

Invited guests were: Miss Templin, Mrs. J. D. Templin, Mrs. S. M. Reams, Mrs. B. T. Martin and Mrs. H. D. Whitcomb of Boston, Mrs. C. F. Otey, Mrs. H. H. Overton, Mrs. Wilbur Hollingsworth, Mrs. J. KIWANIS DISCUSS EAST END STREET

Liebig Reports Conversation With Boggs—State Impatient With City's Delay

The East End street proposition was brought up in the Kiwanis Club meeting today noon and violent disapproval of the dilatory manner in which the matter has been handled was expressed However, after announcement that the city engineer had been at work since yesterday noon surveying the street to get data for specifications the club deferred any definite action on the matter today, with the determination to take it up in detail next week if something has not been done by the city by that time

A P Liebig president of the club, reported that he talked over the telephone yesterday with J S Boggs state highway commissioner The latter said that he had signed a contract six months ago, through Judge T J Anderson, with the city of Middlesboro agreeing to pay one third of the cost of constructing this street as part of the Dixie Highway This is the last he has heard of the contract, he said, as it had never even been returned to him with the city's signature He said further that the state did not expect to wait on the City of Middlesboro much longer and if she did not take some action the money apportioned for the street here would be spent in some other way

The chairman, Fred Mooman, was not present and Mr Liebig presided in his place L D Hill drew the attendance prize He was also donor of the silent boosts little Irish shamrocks in honor of St. Patrick

Two short speeches were features of the meeting The first was a flowery, semi humoresque oration on "Smile and Hustle" by W R Pool The last was a talk by General Drury, newspaper man of Louisville who praised Middlesboro and the country roundabout in extravagant though apparently sincere terms

Gets Pleasant Surprise

"About 6 months ago my father was very sick with his stomach, which has been troubling him for several years. Three doctors said he had cancer and one said it was gall stones—all agreed an operation necessary, but on account of his age I was afraid to risk it. I told a friend about it who said his wife had been through the same trouble and had been cured by taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I at once bought a bottle for my father and he is now as strong as a bear and can eat more ham and cabbage than any 3 men." It removes the catarrhal mucous from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at Lee's Drug store or druggists everywhere.

THE AVERAGE CAPACITY OF ALL AMERICAN FREIGHT CARS IS 42 TONS PER CAR
Waste Space
Average Loading of all Freight Cars is but 24 Tons

Half Loaded Cars Increase Costs

The illustration above tells a story which should interest every reader of this newspaper, particularly every shipper of freight. It pictures a condition brought about through no fault of the railroads, but one which affects the business stability and growth of the entire nation.

Latest available figures show a shortage of 179,320 freight cars,—yet, if car-load shippers would load just 10% more freight in each car, such a husbanding of equipment would release more than 200,000 cars, with an attendant relief for every industry now suffering for transportation.

Statistics furnished by the Car Service Division of American Railroads have estimated that merchandise to the value of $1,200,000,000 is in transit each day, and that a little more time on the part of shippers given to the prompt loading and unloading of cars, could, by saving just one day in the aggregate, effect an economy of $185,000,000 annually, in interest.

The railroads are trying to bring about improvements in their handling of freight by the purchase of new cars, (the Louisville & Nashville Railroad has recently contracted for 11,000 new box cars and coal cars) but the shipping public must help the situation by better and quicker loading of cars, and prompt unloading when the railroads deliver cars to their team tracks.

Every time the sun sets the Louisville & Nashville Railroad has spent, that day, $272,286.00, in the maintenance and operation of its freight and passenger service.

When you run out of Gasoline!

there is a most effective danger signal to warn you—your car comes to a stop without any particular amount of damage being done. It is different when you run out of lubricating oil in your motor: there are no warning signals, nothing to flag your attention until great damage has been done.

The greatest single factor in the economical and efficient operation of a motor car is the proper lubrication of its engine. Sufficient quantity, the right quality, the proper weight or grade, and the frequent replacement of oil are the things you want to watch.

You can solve all these problems by putting nothing in your crank case but Polarine, consulting the chart of recommendations to determine just what grade your car requires, and renewing your oil completely after it has been used for six or seven hundred miles.

There is no variation in the quality of Polarine. Wherever you see a dealer who displays a Polarine sign, you may feel assured that you can get there the finest motor oil on the market to-day.

U. M. W. Plan Great Celebration in Pineville April 2

The United Mine Workers of America will celebrate the 25th Anniversary of the eight hour day in the City of Pineville, Kentucky, on April 2 1923, and we call upon every citizen of Bell County to lend us their hearty co-operation in making this one of the greatest demonstrations in the history of Bell County of any character. We hope and believe that the citizenship of Pineville will lend us their hearty co-operation, both moral and financial in helping to make the day one of the greatest days in the history of the County.

We do not say it boastfully, but we do say it with some degree of pride, that the United Mine Workers of America is the only labor organization in the country that has not been forced to accept a reduction in wages, we have been able on account of the justice of our cause to maintain and hold our membership intact.

We feel sure that the merchants, lawers and doctors and business men in every walk of life will welcome such a demonstration and we feel that we can depend upon them to help to make this day one of enjoyment and one that will have its tendencies to bring capital and labor into a closer relationship. We also want to invite every labor organization to join with us on that day in the parade.

Biggest Crowd Even In Pineville

We expect to bring more people into Pineville April 2nd, than was ever assembled at any previous time in the history of Pineville. The parade will start promptly at 10 o'clock, and any organization of reputable character who desire to join us in the parade will confer at once with H. F. Reed, who is chairman of the Demonstration Committee, and he will arrange for you a place in the parade. We expect to have no less than 8,000 to 10,000 miners and other laborers and labor friends in this parade. It will be one great sight to look upon this parade that day. We also invite every coal operator who can make it convenient to attend. We are arranging a very interesting program for this occasion so that the people who atend this celebration will have every reason to be glad they were present. The 8 hour day for the miners was worked out 25 years ago by the conservative minded coal operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers of America around the council table where the best results could come both to employer and employee through the medium of collective bargaining and dealing collectively with each other.

Notable Speakers Coming

The following speakers will be present and will address the people on that day.

William Green of Indianapolis, the National Secretary-Treasurer will speak, and in order that the people may understand, I will say that William Green has held the position of National Secretary-Treasurer since 1912, he has also served in the Ohio Senate and is a speaker of no mean ability, and every citizen in every walk of life should hear him.

The next speaker that will address the people on this occasion will be our good friend Mr. Sanford Snyder, who hails from the great state of Ohio where the U. M. W. of America had its birth Mr. Snyder is one of the pioneers in the labor movement, and is a forceful speaker and is now representing the National Union in this District in the capacity of National organizer and we are glad he is stationed in the Pineville field and to know him and his method of doing business is to admire him. Ever miner should make it a point to hear him along with Brother Green.

The next speaker will be last but not least, our Provisional President of District 19. Mr. William Turnblazer of Knoxville, Tennessee. Mr. Turnblazer needs no introduction to the miners of this District, for we all realize the fighting qualities of President Turnblazer, but I pause here to say that his activities i behalf of the miners have made his name immortal and a monument imperishable in the hearts of the miners of Eastern Kentucky.

The Committee is now negotiating with the Odd Fellows Band at Lexington, Kentucky, to secure their services for that day, and in the event we fail to secure their services we will get some other band.

H. F. REED, Chairman.
Demonstration Committee
